New Tax Bill May Be Sub-

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A fast spreading revolt among Democratic members of the senate finance committee developed today for a complete revision of President Roosevelt's revolutionary $803,000,000 tax bill.

Nine Democrats on the committee were reported ready to offer a new tax program, based upon existing federal tax structure, as a substitute for the presidential plan, which passed the house. Their chief objection lay against the proposal to impose heavy penalty taxes on the undistributed income of corporations in order to force payment of dividends, which in turn would be taxed in the hands of stockholders.

Business Protests Strenuously
A parade of business executives, representing virtually every industrial and mercantile activity, passed before the committee in the last two weeks protesting forcefully against these provisions. Business leaders charged the bill in its present form would destroy small corporations, promote monopoly, prolong the depression, wipe out investments and retard recovery.

This overwhelming protest from

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—The surmise as to whether if nominated Landon would fight has been answered by the governor himself in his radio interview. If he will fight as he says he will, the campaign will come up to all expectations. He may have an opportunity to show his fighting qualities before the nomination as the anti-Landon people in his own party are not going to let him walk off with it without a struggle. There the still five weeks for jockeying and "exposure" before the showdown at Cleveland.

Naturally, the further out in front Landon gets the more keenly distasteful he becomes to the other candidates and their supporters. Now that he has rent his veil of silence, and as soon as the remaining important primaries and state conventions are out of the way, he is bound to be quizzed as to his position on every possible issue.

Among other things, his opponents are evidently going to talk about oil, in an endeavor to smear him with that politically unhealthy lubricant.

Egyptian Cabinet Members Resign

(International News Service)
CAIRO, Egypt, May 9.—The Egyptian cabinet headed by Aly Maher Pasha resigned today, only a few days after the death of the late King Fuad I.

Resignation of the cabinet followed action of the new parliament in unanimously electing a regency, consisting of Prince Mohammed Aly, Aziz Ezzet Pasha and Cherif Sabri Pasha to govern the country until 16-year-old King Farouk, son of Fuad, becomes 18.

The parliament, in making its selections for the regency, disregarded the sealed envelope in which Fuad designated his choices for the regency posts.

BRICK IS USED IN SLAYING WOMAN

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, May 9.—A 55-year-old widow was brutally beaten, criminally attacked and slain in her room at a Young Woman's Christian association hotel today.

The nude body of the victim, Mrs. Lillian Guild, manager of a gift shop was found lying on the floor, a red kimono and a blood-stained pillow tossed over the head.

Nearby was a heavy concrete brick with which her skull had been crushed. Her assailant evidently had entered the second floor room by a fire escape and through an open window.

Room Ransacked
Mrs. Guild's home was in Attleboro, Mass., but she had been a resident of the hotel since January when she returned from a six-months' visit in the East. Previously she had lived at the Y. W. C. A. for two years.

She was manager of a gift shop in the lobby of the Stevens hotel. A colored maid discovered the body shortly before 10 a. m., when getting no response to her knocking she unlocked the door and entered. Two suitcases had been ransacked, and the room was in disorder, indicating the woman had put up a desperate struggle.

First Chicks Hatched Today At Game Farm

This year's first ringnecked pheasant peeps stepped from their shells at the Jordan State Game farm near Harlansburg today.

Although at noon the incubators had not been opened, V. T. Warfield, in charge of the farm, stated that it appeared to be a "good hatch" and that there would probably be about 2,000 little birds occupying the brooders tomorrow.

The chicks will be placed for a few hours in drying compartments before being taken to the brooders. Another hatch will be due next week.

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 9.—WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins was challenged today to make a personal investigation of alleged graft and political corruption in the West Virginia WPA administration by Senator Holt (D) of West Virginia.

Holt flung his challenge at Hopkins as he charged that West Virginia WPA officials have ordered WPA workers to support the candidacy of his colleague, Senator Neely (D) of West Virginia, in the coming primary election under threat of losing their jobs.

Holt broke off political relations with his senior colleague soon after he entered the senate. He claimed Neely with influencing WPA officials to build a political machine in his state.

Dr. Hugo Eckener Sees Far-Reaching Results Of Flight

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 9.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, elderly advisory commander of the new German Zeppelin Hindenburg, today asserted the first north Atlantic crossing of the mammoth lighter-than-air craft measured up to expectations in every respect and predicted the trip would have "far-reaching consequences."

Dr. Eckener granted a fleeting interview with reporters who sought to get the "old master's" reaction to the Hindenburg's initial flight.

Wonderful Trip.
"It was a wonderful trip; we had a wonderful voyage," he said.

"Our trip proved that lighter-than-air ships are practicable for trans-Atlantic travel. You know, I think it was a pretty fast trip. I guess you all do."

Dr. Eckener stated that the dirigible functioned just as he had expected, adding:

"We crossed from coast to coast in exactly two days. We expected

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
TACOMA, Wash., May 9.—William Mahan, erstwhile public enemy No. 1, today pleaded guilty when arraigned before Federal Judge E. E. Cushman on a charge of kidnapping nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser last year and extorting $200,000 ransom from the family of the heir to a vast timber fortune.

TACOMA, Wash., May 9.—From Tacoma city jail where William Mahan is being held in an isolated cell, two flatly contradictory reports emanated today as department of justice agents prepared to bring Mahan into federal court, on charges of kidnapping nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser and extorting, by use of the mails, $200,000 from the boy's father for his release.

One report was to the effect that Mahan, branded by Harmon and Margaret Waley, now serving long terms for their part in the kidnapping, as the "egoist" and "brains" of the abduction plot, had made a full confession to G-men, and was a cringing coward, beseeching his captors for leniency.

Hundred Thousand Crowd Into Lakehurst To Glimpse Dirigible

(International News Service)
LAKEHURST, N. J., May 9.—A throng of at least 100,000 people—most of whom will get but a distant glimpse of the ship—was rushing into this U. S. naval air station today to welcome the Dirigible Hindenburg, fresh from her record-smashing maiden voyage across the north Atlantic.

Highways leading from the New York and Philadelphia metropolitan centers were jammed with motorists who slowed down to snail's pace as the traffic thickened into mile-long lines. Naval station officers, aided by State police, struggled vainly to keep automobiles moving steadily.

None of the sightseers, however, will be permitted to board the ship, Commander Chaires E. Rosendahl, Lahehurst commandant, announced. Smoking on the field was also prohibited because of the danger of fire from the highly inflammable hydrogen gas with which the zep is filled.

"We expect nearly 100,000 today alone," Commander Rosendahl said, "and that will mean that every road leading to Lakehurst will continue to be jammed. Every effort will be made to keep traffic moving, but our experience with the first visit of the Graf Zeppelin show that this is well-nigh impossible."

It was planned to keep the curious at a distance from the Hindenburg's hanger and to permit parking only in Lakehurst village, a mile from the huge airdrome in which the decommissioned American dirigible Los Angeles is cradled.

Riggle Finishes Defense To Jury

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Pa., May 9.—Predicting that Washington's "lodge fund murder" case will not go to the jury until some time Tuesday, defense counsel today called another parade of witnesses in an attempt to prove David G. Riggle, insurance man, did not kill "the best friend he ever had."

Judge Carl E. Gibson ordered today's session contrary to usual procedure, for Saturday trials are a rarity in Washington county.

Testifying for five hours yesterday, Riggle denied he fired the shot that ended the life of James C. Algeo, an electrician. Both men were financial officers in the same lodge. Riggle testified that he and Algeo both were involved in shortages of lodge funds and that Algeo, who had threatened suicide, was fatally wounded when they struggled.

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 9.—Like a huge silver football three city blocks long, the great German dirigible Hindenburg landed here today and made history.

She completed the first regular commercial north trans-Atlantic flight with 51 passengers, crew of 56 and a cargo of mail and freight.

She smashed all existing records for lighter-than-air voyages from Europe to North America.

It was 6:08 a. m. when the ballast lines were dropped at the mooring mast, marking the official end of the flight.

Her lapsed time from Friedrichshafen, Germany, was 61 hours and 38 minutes, the old record set by the Graf Zeppelin in 1929, was 95 hours and 2 minutes.

Tin Mill Day To Be Planned

Annual Picnic Event Is Set
For Saturday, June 27,
At Cascade

Following the tremendous successes of 1934 and 1935, the employees of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company will hold another "Tin Mill Day" in Cascade Park again this year. Announcement was made today that the date for the picnic had been set for Saturday, June 27, the place will be Cascade Park and the general chairman will be Harry Davies.

"Tin Mill Day" is the largest picnic day in New Castle in the summer. The park is always crowded, hundreds of visitors attended from other camps and the tin workers make a real day of it.

General Chairman Davies is now working on the committees that will serve with him and announcements of them and other details of the day will be made public shortly.

Arthur Mometer

When the weather man says warmer, and the days are long and bright, when there's warmth and heat and sunshine and there's no frost at night, that's the time I think of picnics in some shaded sylvan dell with a lot of pickled onions and some pie that doesn't jell. With a flock of ants and crawlers that insist on coming up to the icing on the pound cake or into the coffee cup. That's the life, those summer picnics, when the skeeters like to play round the stuff that once was cold slaw, weather's ninety one today.

Shoes May Give Identity Clue To Headless Girl

(International News Service)
BOSTON, May 9.—Hoping to identify the headless body of a 20-year-old girl found in the Ohio river near Portsmouth, O., through the Boston-made tap dancing shoes she was wearing, police today searched the files of missing persons.

The shoes, a scarf with the initials "E. H.", a gray wool dress and a slipover sweater were articles authorities had to aid in identifying the body.

The Ohio coroner who examined the body said the head may have been severed with a knife or by floating debris. The clothing indicated the body had been in the water only a short time.

Special Officer William Ross, in charge of the Boston missing persons bureau, said two tap dancers have disappeared from Boston during the last six months.

MOB BESIEGES AUGUSTA JAIL

Suspect Moved To Waterville

Man Accused In Death Of Two Small Girls In Maine Repudiates Confession

ARREST CLIMAXES FIVE DAY SEARCH

(International News Service)
WATERVILLE, Me., May 9.—Repudiating the alleged confession he made a few hours after being arrested, James H. Folsom, 39, paroled convict and Skowhegan farm hand, was whisked secretly from the mob-besieged jail at Augusta to Waterville today, charged with the murders of Mary Proulx, 7, of Waterville, last Sunday, and Annie K. Knights, 12, of Fairfield, last October.

Climaxing five days of one of the most intensive manhunts ever conducted in Maine, Folsom was taken into custody by Sheriff Henry E. Burnell and a deputy on a farm in Cumberland, near Portland, where he had been working for two days, on a "tip" by Hollis E. Strout, 26, who worked with him.

Two hours later he wrote out and signed a "confession" that he bound and gagged both girls and left them to die after attacking them.

To the reputed confession he added: "I am writing this under fear of what might happen if I do not and also signing it under protest because I am afraid."

As soon as Folsom's capture became known, a crowd of more than 1,000 persons gathered at Waterville city hall.

Fearing violence if he was brought here immediately, deputy sheriffs took Folsom to Augusta jail by automobile. A squad of state police was stationed at the Kennebec river bridge at Augusta to prevent Waterville men from going in a body to that city.

Despite every precaution, however, hundreds of irate citizens swarmed about the jail and lined the streets on both sides when Folsom arrived they were held back by state and city police.

When deputy sheriffs attempted to take Folsom into the jail through an unguarded side door, the mob broke through and surrounded the automobile. Several persons struck at Folsom but he was uninjured. Police had to fight their way through the crowd to get to the automobile and form a guard about the prisoner.

Folsom's alleged confession in which he said he could not remember any details of the two slayings except that "they both cried" and he bound their wrists and gagged them because he was afraid someone would hear them, was made in the presence of Cumberland County Sheriff Burnell. The sheriff had other officers out of the room when repeated questioning failed to elicit any statements. Folsom was highly excited and trembling every time mention was made of the murders of Mary Proulx and Annie Knights.

to make the run in 60 or 62 hours. We had good weather and flew over the steamship lane.

At this point, a reporter asked Dr. Eckener about the reported dispute with the Hitler regime over his refusal to fly the Hindenburg in connection with German military manoeuvres.

Misunderstanding. "That was a misunderstanding," said Dr. Eckener, shrugging his shoulders.

Pressing the issue further, reporters asked if the German press had refused to take cognizance of his accomplishments, as was reported in this country. He replied:

"No, no, no. I don't believe such a report. It is not true. I have always been well treated by the German press."

Reverting to the discussion of the trip, Dr. Eckener said:

"We crossed from Southampton to Sandy Hook in exactly 52 hours. From Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, the time was 59 hours. Of course we might have made better time, but the engines are new and we had them running at a reduced speed. It was a marvelous flight, and fortunately we took just about the shortest route because of the good weather."

Naval station experts here figured the elapsed time at 61 hours and 38 minutes.

Man Suicides By Dive In Furnace Of Detroit Home

"If you do, I am going to end it all."

Riggle testified the woman's name was Olive Riggs of Washington.

After describing the struggle, Riggle told of losing his nerve and leaving Algeo's body at the roadside. Then, he admitted, he became emmeshed in a "web" of his own lies.

SEE REVISION OF PRESIDENT'S TAX PROGRAM

industry and commerce provoked the Democratic revolt against the bill. With five Republican members also opposed to the presidential plan, the rebelling Democrats will command a majority on the committee. This indicated the bill would be revised.

Counter Plans

Three counter plans were proposed as substitutes for the presidential program. These were:

1. Increasing existing corporation taxes 5 per cent along the line, so that the present scale of 12 1/2 per cent to 15 per cent would be raised to 15 to 20 per cent; with all dividends made subject to normal income taxation; and a three-year surtax on undistributed income of corporations as a substitute for all "windfall" and processing taxes.

2. Imposition of a flat 12 1/2 per cent tax on corporation income, with a graduated surtax, ranging from 12 1/2 to 20 per cent, on undivided earnings as a substitute for the presidential corporation tax. This would make a maximum corporation tax of 32 1/2 per cent instead of 42 1/2 per cent as proposed by the president in event a corporation made no dividend payments out of its earnings.

3. A boost in existing corporation taxes to a new scale, ranging from 15 to 18 per cent, with no tax on undivided earnings, along with an increase of the normal income tax rate from 4 to 6 per cent, with dividends made subject to these taxes, and a slight increase on income surtaxes up to the $50,000 level.

Would Yield Revenue Asked

All three plans were said to yield the revenue asked by the president. Their sponsors argued these proposals were certain to bring in additional revenue, whereas the presidential plan has been assailed by tax experts and accountants as likely to reduce federal revenues through the destruction of corporation business.

Chief criticism against the presidential plan was that, while aimed at tax avoidance schemes, it actually would wipe out small corporations. Testimony showed 97 per cent of all corporations employed 250 or less men and yet hired 48 per cent of all labor employed in industry. Experts said this class of corporations would be crucified by the presidential plan.

Senator Couzens (R) of Michigan, made this objection. He added that the bill would enable some large corporations to escape all taxes, by merely paying out all earnings in dividends.

Senators King, Connally, Bailey, Walsh, Byrd and George, all Democratic members of the committee, declared the bill would have to be revised.

New Galilee Man Takes Own Life

William J. Mitchell, 73, Found Hanging By Cord From Door Of Home Friday

William J. Mitchell, aged 73 years, hanged himself on Friday at his home in New Galilee, where he lived alone.

The body was found inside the front door, suspended by wrapping twine from the top of the door. The discovery was made by a workman who had been repairing the roof of the home. Coroner H. C. McCarter, of Beaver county, was called and made an investigation. Mr. Mitchell had evidently stepped off a chair, and although his feet touched the floor the fall had been sufficient to cause his death.

Mr. Mitchell was born on November 3, 1862, in Beaver county, and had passed all his lifetime in the New Galilee locality. He was not married and his only survivors are a sister and brother, Mrs. E. S. Short, of New Galilee and Ross Mitchell.

Funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of Mrs. Short, with Rev. D. Rayburn Campbell, of Darlington, in charge. Interment will be made in Rocky Spring cemetery, New Galilee.

Move To Halt Gold Shipments Made In France

Paris Bankers Take Action To Halt The "Flight From The Franc"

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
PARIS, May 9.—Partial prohibition of gold and foreign currency sales was suddenly clamped down by Paris bankers today in a drastic unofficial move to halt the "flight from the franc" which threatens the French gold standard.

With millions of dollars in gold being shipped almost daily to the United States, the Paris bankers' syndicate decided no longer to sell gold or foreign bank notes unless the sales were "absolutely justified."

Further to prevent speculative purchases or the withdrawal of French balances, the banks, including foreign institutions, ruled that no more than the equivalent of $50 daily would be paid out in foreign currency—and this sum would be withheld unless its sale is proved necessary.

The bride was attractively attired in blue with blue accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of roses, sweet peas, and baby breath. The maid of honor wore a smart suit of yellow crepe, with a shoulder bouquet similar to the bride's.

After the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the home of the groom's parents. The table was decorated by a large wedding cake. The couple have taken up house-keeping in their newly-furnished home on Cascade street.

On Tuesday evening Miss Nadyne Connor honored the bride with a shower at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Stevens, of Hillcrest avenue. A beautiful bouquet of tulips formed the centerpiece, while small corsages at each place carried out the idea of floral decorations. The bride was the recipient of numerous useful and practical gifts.

MOTHER'S DAY

MOTHER'S DAY will release the flood gates of tender memories for many men and women. To others who still possess that heaven-loaned treasure it ought to mean more than it ever can mean until the borrowed is returned.

It seems to be part of the human scheme of things that no matter how much a mother is appreciated in life, the real appreciation comes only after she is gone. This is not the experience of one son or of one daughter but of all children. It is like health, sunshine and the other treasures of life, valued most when gone.

Mother's Day is not an old day as such events are reckoned and in some respects is not essential to the true relation between mother and child. There are any number of sons and daughters to whom a Mother's Day is not necessary to show proper respect and devotion to that parent. To them every day is Mother's Day, but there are those whose affection is no less but whose thoughts go astray that do find in this yearly observance the suggestion for doing the thing that they really meant all along to do or to say but forget.

The wearing of a flower, the writing of a letter, the pilgrimage to a grave, these and kindred expressions of child-love for mother are appropriate on Mother's Day. To those who have, Mother's Day should be embraced to its fullest opportunity, for there comes a time when Mother's Day makes the heart ache with longing and the sense of a terrible loss.

PRACTICAL ALTRUISM

The plan announced by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation and the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company whereby every employee with five years of service will be given a paid vacation is one of the finest examples of practical altruism seen in industry in years.

At first blush it might be supposed that the plan was a purely altruistic one and there is considerable of altruism in its elements. But analyzed it becomes apparent that there is more to it than just altruism. It is a practical thing, a plan that will make for better efficiency, deeper loyalty and satisfied workmen.

Back of the plan must be the thought in the minds of the executives responsible for it that men who toil in the mills are entitled to consideration as to their recreational needs. Back of it must be the thought that there is a common bond between the men who man the desks and the men who man the rolls and furnaces. The one burns up nervous energy and the other physical energy and both need time to store up a reserve.

It is a commendable plan, one that will meet with hearty approval, one that again demonstrates that industry is now headed not only by brains but by hearts.

RECIPE FOR QUIET

If a man had to choose between a long life and a happy one, is there any reason to suppose he would take the former? Why, indeed, should he? But if the infernal din of cities—even the small ones—can be lessened, something will have been done to bring about a state in which longevity and happiness both have been attained. This we have on distinguished authority: Lord Horder, physician to King Edward VIII, who says that the clamor of the cities is one of the things which makes some of us believe a long life is hardly worth living.

When Lord Horder arrived in New York the other day and was asked for his opinion concerning the lengthening of life he replied, briefly, that "people live long enough." This he amplified with a question of his own: "Why should we live longer with economic conditions what they are, with the infernal noise of cities, with the machinery we have created running away with us?" Thus, and properly, we think, noise is placed alongside economic ills as a chief trouble of humanity. One must have peace and quiet as well as prosperity.

Our duty, as the case is here stated, is to restore prosperity, tame the machine and eliminate noise. Then a long life will be desirable. How to go about the first two is a matter currently engaging the attention of many minds. We would not presume to advise them at it. The third is something which could and should engage everyone's attention. Our own idea on the subject is that a great deal of noise would be eliminated if everyone—and this includes automobile drivers, emphatically—would be a little quieter.

ROYAL ROAD TO CRIME

In this enlightened age when it has been proved to the satisfaction of many that crime does not pay, it is with a distinct shock and with apprehension that we regard the true status of the thief and the murderer and the racketeering gentlemen. While real estate slumps, the jails, the houses of correction, the prisons increase in a long and steady gray line. Each day adds to the number of new-made criminals, and almost every hour there comes forth from penitentiaries the men—and women—who regard with considerable mockery the expiation of their crimes. For them crime is the only thing that pays. They will have nothing of honest toil.

There is possibly no man in the United States who knows more about crime and criminals than J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. His department has been most effective against the varied inroads of crime but now he steps out into the cold, pitiless light of revelation and discloses facts that cause the blood to run cold. In a deeply gloomy attitude he painted a picture to the annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution sufficient to make even the most apathetic turn with some concern. In his address there was bitterness and a trace of despair. He told the delegates that one out of every 25 persons in the United States has at least had his brush with law enforcement agencies and is inclined toward criminality. His words stunned and shocked the delegates and as he went on and on with his figures, his statistics, his records—devoid of sentimentalities and romanticism—they sat in hushed silence and wondered how such a thing could have gained such terrific momentum.

Not softening the hammer-like blows that fell from his lips, he told them the cause and its possible cure. "If we wait upon the medical quacks, the parole panderers, and the misguided sympathizers with habitual criminals to protect our lives and properties from the criminal horde, then we must also resign ourselves to increasing violence, robbery and sudden death."

From the apathy of the public, from the scheming and grafting politician, from the interlocking professional men who "are the mer behind the Dillingers of the nation" there has come this fruitful and sinister crop each year: 12,000 murders; 46,981 cases of felonious assaults; 283,685 burglaries; 779,956 larcenies; 247,346 automobile thefts.

DODGE CITY, Kansas, May 9.
This travels by wire from Dodge City to Chicago, thence to many cities that publish Hearst newspapers and some two hundred other cities in which this column is published. All the actual "elapsed time" over all the wires would amount to less than one second. Electricity is efficient.

This Dodge City was at first a victim of progress when railroads began carrying long trains of steers to market and the animals no longer passed through here, traveling under their own power.

In 1884, 52 years ago, eight hundred thousand in three herds came through from Texas, with four thousand men and thirty thousand horses, necessary on the trail.

ALL THAT business is gone, gallant cowboys no longer shoot up the cattle town, leaving their earnings behind, but still Dodge City moves ahead. Ice cream factories, city park, a country club, magnificent high school, girls' academy, theaters, flour mills, grain elevators, have replaced advantageously the romantic gambling houses and dance halls.

And this Santa Fe division point pays 1,200 employees $1,800,000 a year. More than cowboys ever left here.

GIANT MOUNTAINS, endless plains remind you this is a big and an old country in spite of its new civilization.

At the Gallup, New Mexico, railroad station stands the blackened trunk of a tree, 18 inches in diameter, now turned to solid stone. That tree, from one of the oldest forests in the world, was petrified eighty million years ago.

YOU PASS one small town, Engel, New Mexico, and learn that you are 13 miles from Elephant Butte Dam, one of the minor irrigation reservoirs built by the United States.

It would be a big one elsewhere, for it stores three times as much water as does the Assouan Dam in Egypt.

MUSSOLINI will please notice that, although we did take this country from the Indians, establishing a precedent for his recent activities in Ethiopia, we showed some kindness to the Indians when they stopped shooting at us and we stopped killing them.

"WHAT DO YOU KNOW?"
"WELL, WHAT do you know?"

says he to me.

"Nothing at all," says I to him, politely and he went his way and I went mine.

But my answer wasn't true. . . . You can't pass 40 years without gathering a considerable amount of fact and opinion. Some of it sticks to you, some of it blows away like dandelion fuzz. Some is useful, some is just a burden. Some is solemn stuff, and some is trivial but pleasant. . . . So, whatever they may be worth, I guess I know a few things.

I know that some sunsets are magnificent and others are just dreary across the sky. . . . that it's fun to watch a baby getting older and learning things. . . . that a meadow lark on a fence post makes a thrilling song. . . . that wild geese flying over in the night, honking as they go, do something to the heart. . . . that chickens are silly things. . . . and that cows have more sense than they seem to have.

I know that friendship is good. . . . that responsibility is better than no responsibility. . . . that childhood isn't altogether a happy time of life. . . . that children make shrewd analyses of their parents. . . . that worry is futile but practically unavoidable. . . . that you waste your time crying over spilt milk. . . . but that's why you cry. . . . that when you're getting a cold you're likely to be peevish.

I know that women think men are funny. . . . that men talk a lot about women. . . . that a fellow needs his sleep. . . . that though you lose what you love it's a blessing to have had it. . . . that every man or woman carries a flaming torch from the dark past to the shining future. . . . and that selfishness is its own defeat.

I know that beauty is good. . . . that an ugly life is a tragedy. . . . that the human heart is patient, durable and stanch. . . . that all human beings want to be good.

What do I know? . . . My friend, I know as much as I have written, and a little more.

"All right, Mary," he said, "this is our row."

There ought to be a law at house cleaning time that no wife be permitted to switch the furniture around unless she first furnishes her husband with a road map, all detours clearly marked.

IS THERE NO opposition in Italy to war—even a victorious war?
Yes, according to a letter from an Italian living in Paris, Carlo Roselli. We quote from Roselli's letter to the Manchester Guardian, famed English paper:

"While the civilized world is justly indignant at the bomb in Italy, even if as is natural, a part of the population is worked upon by the news of victories presented as final one, and by a very natural unity of feeling with the 400,000 sons, brothers and husbands away in Africa, and is persuaded that the war will shortly end favorably for Italy."

"Within the last few weeks the Special Tribunal has distributed 223 years of imprisonment: 65 years to the group of intellectuals, accused of belonging to the 'Justice and Liberty' movement; 24 years to the young professor of finance of Cagliari university, Antonio Pesenti (aged 24), for having taken part, abroad, in a congress of protest against the Abyssinian war; 20 years to the workman Guermendi; 102 years to a group of 17 workmen from Reggio Emilia (names still unknown); 12 years to Giglio, of Leghorn, whose father was murdered by the Fascists in 1932.

"The bearing of all the prisoners was courageous, and during the trial against the intellectuals of Turin there were poignant moments. Against one of them, Professor Monti, there was no evidence, but the public prosecutor reproached him with having taken care, before his arrest, of the two children of one of his companions, Giulia. These children had been left quite alone in their home after the arrest of their father and mother."

"Monti answered: 'I certainly did so, and I am proud of it. I am ashamed that in a country which boasts of being civilized it can be counted as blameworthy to have had pity on two children left alone at home. Yes, I did take them to school and to the cinema, and I was only sorry I was not rich enough, for I would have had them to live with me. I would have done more for them.'"

"Even the military judges betrayed some feeling. But superior orders obliged them to condemn."

OTHER TRIALS SECRET
"Besides these trials, of which news has come through, how many other trials, how many other sentences, of which we know nothing? Since the war began the Fascist newspapers have received orders never to mention them. News of Special Tribunal trials filters abroad with the greatest difficulty and in Italy, except for the immediate circle of the men condemned, nothing is known at all."

"Then there are the secret military trials. A glimpse of these was to be had when the Manchester Guardian published a secret order to the Italian press, dated Dec. 18, 1935, to the effect that 'No notice is to be taken of the trial before the military tribunal of Rome against five soldiers for mutiny.' How did this trial end? Who were the accused men? No one knows. An-

May 10, 1908—"Mother's Day" had its inception with a celebration in a Presbyterian church in Philadelphia, as a result of a movement instituted by Miss Anna Jarvis, a Virginia lady. A memorial service she arranged for her mother suggested to her a national holiday in which all mothers would be remembered in some affectionate and notable way. The idea has since spanned the world, being particularly popular in Latin America.

State Treasurer Waters Makes Statement On Relief Money In State

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—In a speech regarded in some political circles as indicative of the Republican stand when the state legislature reconvenes Monday, State Treasurer Charles A. Waters was on record today with the statement the federal government should pay the commonwealth's relief needs.

Payment by Washington of its "promises" to the state would obviate the necessity of the special legislative session's finding additional funds, Waters, Republican member of the Emergency Relief board, asserted in a radio broadcast.

ians are rich now, rich enough to madden the lowly Communist, oil having been found on their lands.

Those Indians may travel a short distance on their ponies and find traces of cliffs' ancient grandeur. On the side of soft rock they built "apartment houses" containing as many as 1,000 rooms each.

THAT CIVILIZATION came and went, and now, beyond the ocean, in dark Africa, Mussolini is starting another civilization, grafting modern Italy and ancient Rome on African soil, as our ancestors brought English civilization here.

THE ITALIAN flag flies over Haile Selassie's palace. He will never see that palace again, but he has boxes of gold bars with him and has moved to a safer, better climate.

Italian soldiers sang patriotic songs as the Italian flag was hauled up. The natives, after a few minutes instruction, did the Fascist salute fairly well, having carefully hidden the rifles with which they had been shooting white people, regardless of nationality, the day before.

MR. EDEN for the British Empire, accepting the "accomplished fact," says England still disapproves of Mussolini, admits that the League of Nations failed to scare the Italians, even fifty to one.

And, says Mr. Eden, Britain's horror of war, not fear of Italy, will prevent any military attack on Mussolini, any effort to free Ethiopia by force. What England will try to do, by diplomacy, Mussolini knows as well as Eden knows.

MUSSOLINI says that Italy now has all she wants in the way of colonies, plenty of room and fertile land, millions of good workers in the Ethiopians, used to fivers and insects. They will all be freed from slavery and put on the payroll.

There is gold in Ethiopia, and oil, and Mussolini is in a mood to say to England and France, still digesting Germany's colonies:

"Move over, let me lie down beside you, I am satisfied, having swallowed all I need."

THUS, the great rock python, having absorbed a deer or donkey, remains peaceful for some time.

There, unsatisfied, is however one "rock python" named Hitler, with a strong colonial appetite. The British and France, especially, wonder what he will do. Mussolini does not care; a quiet life seems not to interest him.

It's True—The "king of beasts", the lion, is far less a menace in the jungle than a half dozen other animals. It has to hunt almost exclusively by sight and sound, for its sense of smell is limited and virtually useless.

Incidentally, to be called lion-hearted isn't a compliment. The lion has the smallest heart of any predatory animal.

The bigger the heart, the fewer the heartbeats per minute. The heart beat of an elephant, for instance, is only half that of a human.

You're wrong if you believe that geysers erupt with clockwork regularity, and that Old Faithful, for instance, has a schedule you can depend on to the minute. Small geysers for short periods of time do sometimes erupt with regularity, but eventually there are marked differences between eruptions. Old Faithful shows maxima and minima as far apart as 38 and 81 minutes.

League Suffers As Italy Wins

Italian Victory In Ethiopia Leaves League Of Nations With Problem On Hands

SEE GRIEF AHEAD FOR MUSSOLINI

Central Press Washington Bureau 1903 S street
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Italy's conquest of Ethiopia leaves League of Nations diplomacy with about as severe a headache as it suffered from while Haile Selassie still was fighting.
What are the league powers to do?
Call off their Italian sanctions? If they do that they tacitly admit that the league is toothless; with completely ineffective sanctions it can't bite. It may as well expire, in short.
Or shall the league folk refuse to recognize Mussolini's acquisition of the Ethiopian realm? If they do that they simply will prolong a dangerous situation indefinitely.

GRIEF AHEAD?
It is not as if Italy really had pacified the Ethiopians.
Capturing a capital like Addis Ababa and policing Ethiopia are two different things.

France technically conquered Morocco, but had 70 years of subsequent guerrilla warfare on its hands. Spain technically conquered the Rif, but, nearly a generation later, the expense of keeping it conquered cost King Alfonso his throne.
Military men surmise that the Fascists have decades of grief ahead of them yet to make their Ethiopian conquest stick.

PERILOUS CONDITION

And if the league powers all this time continue to refuse to recognize that the Ethiopians are conquered, and continue trying to apply sanctions to Italy, and continue lending a certain amount of aid to Ethiopia? Why! the possibility of international friction is manifest.
It would be as perilous a state of affairs for Italy as for the rest of the world, to be sure, but Italy evidently is disposed to run the risk.

MUSSOLINI'S ADVANTAGE

Mussolini has gained one important advantage over his League of Nations' critics.
Until Haile Selassie fled they persisted in reproaching his army's advance on Addis Ababa, but with the Negus' flight and the outbreak of disorders in his capital, they had no choice but to appeal to Il Duce, "For heaven's sake, hasten your troops' progress to protect our legations."
Thus the Fascist leader is in a position to argue henceforward that he acted just as the league countries begged him to act; not in defiance of their wishes.

PAYING THE BILL

Diplomats take it for granted that Mussolini will be very popular with his country for a while, now that his campaign appears to have been so successful.

Their guess, however, is that discontent will begin to develop as the home folk start paying the bill for his venture.

This may not be the case if the Ethiopians accept Italian rule peacefully, instead of continuing guerrilla warfare indefinitely, and if their country proves to have sufficient natural resources to make it look like a good bargain.

But, as previously remarked, France's and Spain's experiences by no means suggest that the natives will be peaceful for years to come.

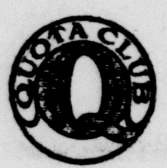

And persons who have visited it insist that the territory is not worth having. As one former resident of Addis Ababa observed in Washington, earlier in the war, "If the Italians get that country, it will serve 'em right for starting a fight with no just provocation."

WRONG TACTICS?

Military men, by the way, are of the opinion that the Ethiopians made the great mistake of trying to fight regular battles, with their primitive weapons, against Italy's up-to-date equipment.

At the outset it was expected that their strategy would be to harass the invaders by a series of swift raids without coming to grips in strong force anywhere, in formal engagements. They did not stick to this policy and in large scale encounters Italian discipline and arms were too much for them.

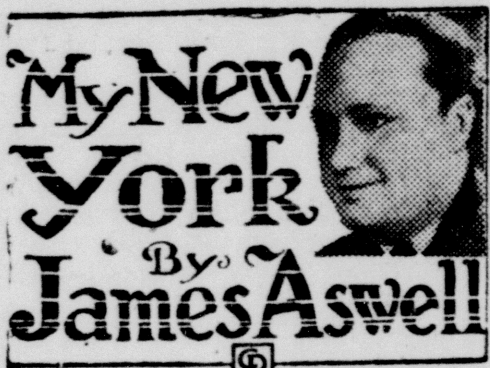

To quote an Italian diplomatic functionary who spent several years at their capital, "The Ethiopian is a wonderful warrior, but no soldier."

(Copyright, 1936, by Central Press Assn.)

NEW YORK, May 9.—The funniest book I have read in months is Dick Hyman's "It's the Law," a collection of looney statutes from all over, illustrated by O. O. Soglow.

Now, I have known Professor Hyman these many years and even toiled in the same journalistic vineyards with him, so I trust I can thump for his tome with no cries of "Log-roller!" from the gallery. It would be a very dangerous thing, however, to recommend an unfunny book that was supposed to be funny.

With a serious novel you can have your say and tolerant customers may put it down as a difference of opinion. But a humorous effort that falls flat leaves the folk who espouse it in danger of lynching by trustful souls seduced into spending hard money. I think I am safe in declaring that the doourest soupouss will unbend to a giggle over "It's the Law."

More, the book has a moral. Young Hyman, who bears such a striking physical resemblance to Mr. George Raft that dowagers faint in his presence, has served a commendable sociological purpose in collecting the more absurd of the laws under which we groan. It is the best possible demonstration of the typical politician's mental processes.

If legislators, duly assembled at the taxpayers' expense, have solemnly ordained in one state that animals out after dark must carry tail-lights; if in another they have acted favorably upon a law to prohibit people from making faces at one another; and if in a third they have yanked down their sombreros a law making it a crime to purchase a chicken after dark—it is good clean fun for researchers like Mr. Hyman. But it is more than that! It is a sample of the kind of law-making that goes on every day not only in the state chambers but in the marble halls of Washington.

Every trustful voter who believes that the sorrows of the world can be cured by putting more and yet more power into the hands of the politicians should peruse "It's the Law" for the good of his soul. Then he should take a month off and read four or five issues of "The Congressional Record" for a dilute sequel.

One of the chuckliest servant-and-master relationships in Hollywood is that between Victor McLaglen and his Arab valet-buttler-chauffeur-cook, Abdullah. McLaglen's principal hobby is firing and re-hiring Abdullah—whom he rescued from a deserted camp in Mesopotamia during soldier days.

The flicker strutter keeps a chart in his home of the number of times Abdullah has been bounced and taken on again. The count, according to my West Coast tattler, is now 156.

Joe Cook's tall and side-burned butler is the only other similar case I can think of offhand. A shell-shocked veteran of the heroic Black Watch regiment and an Englishman, he was hired by Cook when he came to offer a case of choice wet goods to the comedian, in prohibition days. On his uppers, he said he knew of no other way to earn a living.

Now visitors to the Lake Hopatcong estate where Cook entertains sumptuously always ask for the latest bulletin on his butler. Cook fires him about once a month, "for discipline's sake"—after which there is a joyous reconciliation.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

On Court House Hill

Deputy Sheriff Elmer Taylor reports that seventeen executions which will be sold at the June term of court. Yesterday was the last day for filing writs. The number of executions is about the same as last month.

Will of the late Howard E. McClymonds of Ellwood City has been probated at the register and recorder's office. Decedent left all of his property, real and personal to his wife, Margaret E. McClymonds, for life. At her death it is to go to their daughters, Helen and Dorothy. Mrs. McClymonds and G. Blaine Hancher, are named as executors.

Lists of the persons elected to membership in the Republican and Democratic county committees are being made up by the return judges who are counting the vote cast at the recent primary election. The work has been considerably delayed owing to the mistakes of some of the election boards who failed to carry out the instructions printed on the return sheets.

One of the county assessors says he runs across lots of situations that give him a headache to know what to do. "I come across two adjoining properties," says he. "The houses are exactly alike. They were built at the same time. The lots are of equal value. One o. the houses has been newly painted and has a neat and well kept appearance. The other house is badly in need of paint, and the grounds do not show the same care, as those around the other house. Should I assess these two properties at the same price, and if so, should I base the value of each on the newly painted house or the one in need of paint? Think it over, what would you do?"

According to data contained in a publication received by the county commissioners, there were 371 loans made here through the efforts of the Federal Housing Administration which conducted a campaign some time ago. The loans, which were for the improving and re-conditioning of homes, amounted to a total of $105,261. These loans were made through the banks. Many more applications for loans were made but the prospective borrowers could not meet the requirements.

County commissioners have received a copy of the contract which has been signed for the construction of the Edenburg viaduct. The county is principally concerned in the damages which will accrue by reason of the improvement. Under the contract the amount of damages must be approved by the public service commission. The county is to pay one-half and the railroad one-half. However the county must first put up the money for the entire damage and then collect from the railroad companies for their shares. The Pennsylvania railroad is to pay ten per cent, the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie twenty per cent, and the Baltimore and Ohio twenty per cent, and the county fifty per cent. It is not known yet just how these damages are to be determined, but the usual custom is to take testimony of competent witnesses. It is understood that the county would have the right to appeal if not satisfied with awards.

County Controller Frank R. Hill is trying to interest the county commissioners in a plan to utilize a part of the court house corridor as an office for the controller. At present the controller is located in the county commissioner's main office and the department is greatly cramped for room. The plan for additional space would be to partition off a room at the northwest corner of the corridor, adjoining the county treasurer's office. The partition would run flush with main partition extending east. The front stairs to the court rooms go up in this corner, but it is believed that by making a landing they could be carried around along the west wall of the county treasurer's office. The county controller's office should be next to the county treasurer's office and if it is established in this location a door could be cut from the controller's office to the county treasurer's office.

There would be ample space in the room which would be thus made to conduct the controller's business.

There would be one window at the west, and at least one-half of a window at the north, where there is now a full sized window at the foot of the stairs.

Should additional room be needed for the storing of records a stairway could be cut from this room to the basement where it would be a comparatively easy matter to partition off and cement a room for the storage of records.

The proposition to make an additional room at the west end of the court house has been discussed in former years, but nothing has ever been done about it. It is claimed that it could be done at comparatively small expense.

Firemen Ready For First Game With Cochranon

Sixth Ward Firemen Will Pry
Off 1936 Lid On Sunday
At Lee Avenue Field

The Sixth Ward Firemen will open the 1936 independent baseball season in New Castle by playing the famous Cochranon Firemen at the Lee Avenue field at 2:30 o'clock Sunday. Manager Joe Ziegler will probably call on either Art "Smoney" Alexander or "Lefty" Thornton to do the pitching for the fire-sayers.
Cochranon will no doubt start Lloyd Brown, the brother of the famous Clint Brown of the major leagues. There is a lot of friendly rivalry between the two teams following the split in a two-game series last year.
Louis "Pick" Glitch, business manager of the team, is busy lining up several fast semi-pro teams for the Firemen this year. Glitch intends to schedule the best teams in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania.

WILBER BRUBAKER GETS FOUR HITS

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports
Writer.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Jerry Nugent has that Philadelphia gleam in his eyes. A Philadelphia gleam is that strange sparkle which lights up the optic whenever a piece of change hoves in sight.

Jerry has a couple of worthwhile baseball chattels for sale. A Philly owner always has a couple of those and they're always for sale—at a price.

Deal Is Brewing.

The Giants need a couple of worthwhile baseball chattels—like Curt Davis and mayhap Dolph Camilli—and they have the price. Therefore, that Philadelphia gleam and hence a deal in the very near future.

Connie Mack, who also owns a Philadelphia club, also has that strange glimmer in his aged peepers. But then he always has had it. The tough part of it for Connie is that he has so little left to sell and with that nice young Mr. Yawkey around with plenty of dough and willing, nay, eager to spend it for another good pitcher.

A millionaire's money and a good pitcher can be brought together even though they be as far apart as the poles at the moment.

Looking For Pitchers.

The Cubs also are looking for a pitcher, ditto the Tigers, and the Dodgers and Reds have both to sell—for a price—in this case, some ball players who can find their way to first base without aid of stretcher bearers.

The Pirates also need pitching and have not only cash but a player or two to give in exchange for the right man. With so many needings so much, trades, deals, dickers and barters are inevitable.

Macks Top Yanks.

The A's yesterday trimmed the Yanks 3 to 2. The Yanks could make but four hits off Dusty Rhodes although eight passes he issued before being replaced by Dietrich in the eighth had him constantly in trouble.

Count Puccinelli settled the issue with a homer off Red Ruffing. The Yanks lost a grand opportunity to move into first place for the Senators amassed 17 hits off three Red Sox throwers to win, 12 to 9.

Cardinals Win.

The Cards overlooked no such opportunity. That rough and ready crew pounded five Cub pitchers for 14 hits, including two homers by Rookie Mize and one by Medwick, to annex an 11-9 decision and thus moved into the top spot ahead of the Cubs.

In the only other game of the day, the Pirates outscored the Reds, 9 to 6, to entrench themselves firmly in third place, not far off the front runners' pace.

Sportsmen Will Meet Tuesday

The Lawrence County Sportsmen association will meet Tuesday evening at eight o'clock in the community hall on Grove street. A number of ringnecked chicks have been received and will be placed by the association. Also quite a large number of fish have been placed, and more will be placed by the men in the next few days.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

After taking a licking in the first round from which few expected him to recover, Tony Canzoneri, lightweight king, started after Jimmy McLarnin in the second round and from then on battered the Pacific coast brawler to win the unanimous decision in 10 rounds at New York last night. McLarnin proved a shadow of his former self.

Geneva College golf and tennis teams split even with Allegheny College at Beaver Falls Friday. The Genevians beat Allegheny at golf, 5 to 1, but they bowed 7 to 2 in tennis. Tom Weiskopf, Geneva captain, shot a 72 for the low medal score in the golf meet. In tennis the Covenanters were able to win only two of the singles contests. Forsythe and Balph registered their victories.

Most of the teams in the Lawrence County Baseball League will practice today in preparation for the opening of the season May 12. Each team has signed the best possible material they could get. On their rosters are youngsters mixed with veterans. In the meanwhile, Leo Hill, in charge of arbiters, is drilling the umpires so that they will be qualified before they take up their duties.

St. Louis Cardinal players who fail to drive in a runner from third base with one out or none out, are automatically fined $500 under a rule established by Manager Frankie Frisch. The fines will be split among the players at the close of the season. Frisch, himself, was one of the first victims of the rule. He fined himself $1000 recently when he hit into a double play with the bases full and one out against Boston.

Bold Venture, winner of Kentucky Derby, nominated for $15,000 added Chicago Derby, to be run at Hawthorne on June 20.

There's one consolation about a bald head. Advancing year don't make it look any older.

CANZONERI PUTS UP GAME FIGHT

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports
Editor

NEW YORK, May 9.—The inevitable end of all things human came to James Archibald McLarnin thru a blur of blood and rocketing smashing blows at Madison Square Garden last night while dimly, as though from far away, sounded the chant of 17,000 rabid, exultant witnesses and, up in a box, the girl-ride bowed her head and could hardly wait for more. It was at once a tragic and somewhat moving sight.

A little man, Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, was winning the fight by so much that the bigger man, 6½ pounds heavier, was out on his feet in the ninth round and only by gameness and a strange looking, almost grotesque manoeuvre was he able to avoid the final ignominy of a knockout. Retreating under the violence of the attack, he bent below the storm from the waist, like a foreign diplomat executing a stiff, society bow.

Never Knocked Out
But Tony himself was so bad that it was enough, the shell, the outward husk of what had been McLarnin, the once great prize fighter, lasted to the final bell in the tenth. It was hopeless, helpless gallantry that carried him on. Never actually knocked out in fifteen years of fighting, he was able to take what dubious comfort he might from the fact that the record stood up to the end last night in this, his final fight.

Canzoneri Game
Otherwise, his performance was so bad as to be almost unreal. He almost knocked Tony out in the first round and reporters scurried to the girl-ride's box to get her post-mortem announcement. Then, one by one, they straggled back.

Tony, his nose bashed and his right eye out, stopped making the mistake of leading to McLarnin and jockeyed James into leading to him, always sound behavior against McLarnin. The result was that the light-weight champion counter-punched out of a crouch, scored a flash knock-down in the second and went on from there, never giving McLarnin another round.

Nature prevents monopoly. The man who makes a fortune usually raises kids who are too soft to keep it.

Class B Softball League Planned

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CARE FOR MOTHERS

"Early and Adequate Care Reduces the Risks of Motherhood—Father Plays a Leading Role." This is the keynote of the sixth annual Mother's Day campaign to improve maternity care in the United States.

I wish you and I could help interest every community in saving mothers. Do you know that we in the United States let 15,000 mothers die in childbirth every year, nearly half as many as the number of persons killed annually in automobile accidents? Experts tell us that most of these mothers could be saved if they had proper medical care. And yet our maternal death rate has not decreased in all the years there have been records. Besides the maternal death rate for our nation is one of the highest in all the world.

Getting babies in a normal biological function which needs not arouse fear and anxiety in any woman who has adequate medical advice and care.

More Emphasis Needed.

The medical schools need to put more emphasis on this matter. The average doctor now in training devotes only about 4 per cent of his time to obstetrics whereas in general practice he will give 30 per cent of his time to caring for expectant mothers and helping bring babies into the world.

Women in general should be more interested in this problem, especially should those women who have finished having babies. Let them in their clubs create ways and means for making motherhood safer in their communities for younger mothers. Let them create public sentiment for providing proper free care for those expectant mothers who can't afford to pay for it.

Furthermore, let these older mothers enlist the interest of their respective husbands, who in turn will interest the younger husband in providing ample medical care for the pregnant wife. And why should there not be sermons on this subject? I can't think of a finer spiritual service. Can you? Men's service clubs could do most, perhaps, since it is the expectant father who best can make the needed care available.

In many a home with moderate means, the expectant mother—bless her soul—fears that she might seem selfish if she were to suggest going to the doctor when she should—as soon as she thinks she is pregnant, and regularly thereafter. What a difference to her if her husband takes the initiative, and tenderly and lovingly goes with her, learning also himself how to further her best care.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer.

Slippery Rock Pa., R. D. 2,

New Castle News, May 7, 1936.

Dear Sir:

I am sending a piece I wrote, if you think it is worthy, would you please publish it in the New Castle News.

Sincerely yours,

MRS. HARRY WIMER.

THE SILENT MOTHER

I would like to make a simple assertion today on "Mother's Day."

I had a mother and loved her. I am a mother and I approve of mothers, generally speaking, they are cozy and comfortable to have around the home.

What I would like to see is just to put ahead one tiny little step of the child-bearing mother, the child-rearing mother. It's to her I would like to hand a bunch of posies—a token for raising some one else's offspring—that can't or won't do it themselves. Our world is full today of such magnificent people. We have the spinsters, nurses, teachers and even servants who have reared children that have made No. 1 American citizens and so dear readers, don't forget to hand a posie to these deserving people and don't twist your face in a half smile and say "Well, she should of got married she would have made a wonderful mother." What is she but that?

High School Orchestra Presents Musical Program At Consistory's May Party

CROTON PUPILS IN SQUARE DANCE

New Castle students presented an interesting program for members of the Valley of New Castle Consistory at their annual May party in the Cathedral last evening which was attended by close to 800 members of the Consistory, their Masonic friends, and ladies.

The senior high school orchestra under the direction of Joseph F. Replogle presented a number of musical selections and in addition the soloists, and ensemble numbers which won honors at the state contest held at Pottsville last month, were featured.

Included in the numbers presented was a bassoon solo by Gilbert Colnot, accompanied at the piano by Jane Bryan; baritone solo by Charles Coulter, accompanied by Harry Schneitzinger; trombone solo by Tom Cramer, accompanied by Jane Bryan; brass sextet, Henry Golis, Thomas Booher, Thos. Cramer, Russell Book, Charles Coulter, and Jack Fox; woodwind quintet, Robert Chamberlain, Dennis Allhouse, Joe Markel, Hudson Wilson, and Gilbert Colnot.

After the program in the auditorium, which followed the dinner downstairs, the audience repaired to the ball room, where dancing was enjoyed.

As a feature between the dances, pupils of the Croton Avenue school, 48 in number, gave an old-fashioned square dance. This part of the program was sponsored by W. Asa Hoffmaster, principal of the school, the pupils having been coached in this by Mr. Hoffmaster and Miss Mildred Sargent, recreational director at the Croton school. They were assisted by Carl Miller, who called the figures, and Mrs. S. C. Henkleckner, at the piano.

The youngsters received considerable able applause for their efforts, the presentation being one of exceptional merit. They went through the different movements with precision and grace, showing an intensive preparation for the event. The girls were dressed in old fashioned costumes, while the boys wore overalls with handkerchiefs about their necks.
